WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

DANGERS IN A CHEAP MONEY POLICY

LONDON, JUNE 21.

ONCE AGAIN A NOTE OF WARNING HAS BEEN SOUNDED AT THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE, THIS TIME DURING A DISCUS-SION UPON MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN'S PRO-POSALS FOR CREATING LIBERAL CREDIT FACI-LITIES IN ALL COUNTRIES.

With the general principles of the proposals, there was little disagreement, but the Italian delegate pointed to the danger of making credit available before a demand for credit established itself. The obvious danger is that the resources will be used for purely speculative purposes, leading to an artificial boom and a further catastrophic reaction.

TRADE RESTRICTIONS.

The problem of trade restriccussion in the first Sub-Committee of the Economic Commission. This is the Commercial Policy

With an agreement reached to terminate the strike, state officials are investigating charges that Ohicago gangaters fomented strife in an effort to get control of dairy plants. These pictures show the rout of pickets by civilian-garbed guardsmen at Durham Hill, near Milwaukes. The guardsmen are shown above in a charge reminiscent of "over the top" days. Below, the guardsmen are shown deploying behind a tear-gas bomb attack to rout plokets from their headquarters in a farm home. Another serious clash occurred at Bhawano.

the scores of casualties in the Bhawano. Wis., milk strike battle is shown here as guardsmen gave bim first aid. The victim; a strike ploket, suffered a fractured skull from the blow of

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 3,890,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—After an irregular and duil day the market rallied near the close due to London reports that the U.S. dollar might be pegged at around 4.40 to the pound. Favourable steel and electricity news also helped to stimulate the market. The Ironago Magazine report that the primary cause of demand is the piling up of releases against low-priced second quarter contracts as June 30th deadline approaches. Persistence of heavy retail automobile demand is surprising even the auto trade. Indications are that June automobile output will exceed that of May with the movement of steel to the auto industry continuing at the present pace through most of July. Cable received this morning from Swan, Culbertson & Fritz, New York. "Most stocks moved narrowly with "Most stocks moved narrowly with oils strong. Further strength in oils motors and harvester issues expected.

Cotton: London developments indicating the Government's determination to allow no interference in highest commodity price programme and claims of unexpected response in the Western Cotton belt to the cotton curtailment plan is increasing confidence in higher price levels. The market was quiet but very steady. Wheat advanced on insufficient rains and severe crop losses already sustained in the U.S. Northwest and Canada.

Mr. Jardine had won the toss with his rubber penny, and decided to bat. The Australians entered the field in three mourning coaches fitted . with pneumatic tyres.

"D.B. Jardine, Esq." was the first name posted on the scoring-board with rubber-shafted drawing pins. The English skipper was met at the gate by Mr. Woodfull, who presented him with a bouquet of pansies. Mr. Sutcliffe was given a bottle of scented hair oil, and took Mr. Oldfield's arm to the crease.

Mr. Woodfull then tossed the pingpong ball to Mr. O'Reilly, not without a certain amount of effort, as the wind was fairly strong. In fact, at one stage the M.C.C. captain felt very much inclined to appeal against the wind.

After two overs, Mr. Sutcliffe drew the leg umpire's attention to Mr. Oldfield, who, he said, was breathing down his neck. Mr. Oldfield explainthat he was suffering from asthma, so the three shook hands, and the game proceeded with Mr. Oldfield holding his breath and sucking peppermint drop.

HUM-DINGER.

Things should hum in football circles next season. We are not quite certain, on examining the proposed now rules, whether the new Council will be composed of twentytwo, twenty-six or thirty members-But 'twill be a goodly number.

We hear that one prominent local footballer on reading the proposed new League rules was found distraught, wandering about the railway track, talking to the little birdies.

First suspicion was that he had been hit by a train; but he was later heard to be murmuring "And it only takes nineteen people to fill up British Cabinet."

He also said something about "Service for Service men," but it was thought that he was again a trifle light-headed.

FROM THE ECONOMIC FRONT.

Yes, my dear friends, you want to know what we have gathered here together for, gathered here from all the ends of the earth. What are we about to do? You may well ask. It is the question we have come here to decide. What are we about to do. Let me tell you, gentlemen, the world cannot wait. We must do something chaos, and I have little doubt, little doubt, still having faith in human ingenuity and (setto voce) banking resource, that we shall do it. It will all be plain sailing if we see eye to eye. Gentlemen, we must take steps and take them quickly. (Loud cheers). It's a sad heart that never rejoices.

EXCITING FINISH TO BOWLS TIE

H. Nish, 1932 runner-up, obtained easy entry into the third round of the open singles lawn bowls championship yesterday when he defeated J. A. Howe, on the K.C.C. by 21 shots to 4. Howe discovered Nish in his deadliest form, the K.B.G.C. exponent pulling out his best shots to win head after head. A continuance of such form would make Mish a firm favourite for the title this year.

Cullen won by two shots on the 23rd head, but before he obtained the winning point he experienced several anxious moments, particularly towards the close, when Chadwick, taking a new lease of life, bowled his best to reduce a deficit.

Chadwick succeeded in levelling the scores at 19, and then Cullen scored with a rather fortunate wick and scraped home. .

Both players indulged in high class bowls and if Chadwick can consider himself unlucky to lose after such a recovery, it must also be recognised that Cullen, through his consistency, deserved his suc-

HOW THE DEATH DUTIES CRIPPLE INDUSTRY

employees. The effect is felt equally in cottage and castle. Death duties cometimes swallow up the whole of the capital in a business, which thereupon ceases to be a profitcarning—and, consequently, tax-pay-ing—concern. Employees are thrown out of work and a national asset is put out of commission. This point is well illustrated by the case of a principal partner who held £500,000 of the capital in a manufacturing firm. When he died recently the capital of the firm was diminished by £160,000 and its profit-earning and tax-produc-ing capacity reduced by more than 30 per cent. Such a business would be unlikely to recover from the shock in these times when the most affluent concerns find it difficult to make headway.

When the ownership of an estate is transferred by death more than once during a brief period the effects are even more severe, even although some relief from the duties is given in such circumstances. The following example will emphasize this:-

VALUE HALVED.

The owner of a business with a capital of £120,000-died in 1925, and was succeeded by his son John, who died in 1927. John left the business to his brother, who died last year. On passing by will into the hands of an employee the capital of £120,000 has become only £60,000 owing to death duties, and the business will probably cease to exist through its impoverishment.

A man who held £1,000,000 of the capital of a firm died in 1926 and left his interest to his son, who died five years later. Instead of being a millionaire the grandson of the first proprietor succeeded to only £450,000 as a consequence of heavy death duties.

When the duties payable on death were repealed in Italy, the Italian Minister of Finance said that the Government believed that the immediate loss to the Treasury would be more than compensated not only by the performance of an act of justice but by a real general increase in prosperity. If the present financial situation in this country renders the actual repeal of the death duties impossible, it is high time that the rates of duty were reduced and more liberal reliefs granted where estates change hands through death more than once during a short space of time.

Bayonets, toar gas bombs, clubs and side arms-these were the weapons the state of Wisconsin turned against farm plokets to break the milk strike. With an agreement resched to terminate the strike, state officials are investigating charges that Chicago gangsters femented strike in an effort to get control of dairy plants. These pictures show the rout of pickets by civilian-garbed guardsmen at Darham Hill, near Milwaukes. The guardemen are shown above in a charge reminiscent of "over the top" days. Below, the guardsmen are shown deploying behind a tear-gas bomb attack to gout plokets from their headquarters in a farm home. Another serious clash occurred at Shawano.

A lake three feet deep was formed on Yangtzepoo Road, Shanghai when a main water pipe broke, and the resulting flood, at 75 pounds pressure per inch, dug a tremendous hole in the street. The picture'

water pressure. The picture on the right gives an idea of the hole blasted in the road. The perilous electric cables are on the left of the hole while a gas main is on the right, next to the water main.

THEIR THIRD SUCCESS.

A stiffening, rather than a relaxation of the American delegation's attitude at the London Conference is expected as a result of Professor Moley's mission. He is going to London as the President's own itaison officer.

Congressmen still remaining in Washington, are of the opinion that the Conference is in a serious plight, but while the feeling against the French is strong, there is also some disposition to blame the inconsistency of the American delegation and reports suggesting.

In the House of Commons to-day Capt. Anthony Eden answered answered negatively the query of Mr. G. Le M. Mander, Liberal, as to whether consideration would be given the question of a general international prohibition of imports from Japan, following the League of Nations report on the Sino-Japanese question.

Mr. Mander suggested that meetings of the conditions of the shoot, as given by Hongkong, were taken from the annual Territorial Rifle Meeting. L/Cpl. Alfredo Aquino, of the Shanghai team, made the best score, with a total of 97 points out of a possible 105.

HUM-DINGER.

Things should hum in football circles next season. We are not quite certain, on examining the proposed now rules, whother the new Council will be composed of twentytwo, twenty-six or thirty members. But 'twill be a goodly number.

We hear that one prominent local footballer on reading the proposed now League rules was found distraught, wandering about the railway track, talking to the little birdies. First suspicion was that he had been hit by a train, but he was later heard to be murmuring "And it only takes nineteen people to fill up a British Cabinet." He also said something about "Service for Service men," but it was thought that he was again a trifle light-headed.

FROM THE ECONOMIC FRONT.

Yes, my dear friends, you want to know what we have gathered here together for, gathered here from all the ends of the earth. What are we about to do? You may well ask. It is the question we have come here to decide. What are we about to do. Let me tell you, gentlemen, the world cannot wait. We must do something if this world is not to aink into utter chaos, and I have little doubt, little doubt, still having faith in human ingenuity and (sotto voce) banking resource, that we shall do it. It will all be plain sailing if we see eye to eye. Gentlemen, we must take steps and take them quickly. (Loud cheers). . It's a sad heart that never rejoices.

ITALY SOUNDS WARNING

DANGERS IN A CHEAP MONEY POLICY

LONDON, JUNE 21. ONCE AGAIN A NOTE OF WARNING HAS BEEN SOUNDED AT THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE, THIS TIME DURING A DISCUS-SION UPON MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN'S PRO-POSALS FOR CREATING LIBERAL CREDIT FACI-LITIES IN ALL COUNTRIES.

With the general principles of the proposals, there was little disagreement, but the Italian delegate pointed to the danger of making credit available before a demand for credit established itself. The obvious danger MR. LI is that the resources will be used for purely speculative purposes, leading to an artificial boom and a further catastrophic reaction.

ARGUMENT LEADS TO BRAWL

AND A SERIOUS INJURY

An argument between two Chinese in Taifoo Street, Sai Wan Ho, on June 20, led to one of them picking up a stone and throwing it at the other, who received a gash on the head.

The assailant, Chan Chuen-choi, was charged before Mr. Schofield, morning, and ordered to pay $20 amends or go to prison for three weeks, and in addition was fined $50 or one month's hard labour. He was also bound over in $50 to keep the peace for one year.

Sorgeant Slater said that the injury to the complainant, Chan' San, was such, that at one time there was the likelihood of a serious charge being preferred. The de_ fendant absconded, and was arrested yesterday afternoon.

A Chinese motor mechanic was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday, with burns received when

Cullen Wins With A Wick

EXCITING FINISH TO BOWLS TIE

H. Nish, 1932 runner-up, obtained easy entry into the third round of the open singles lawn bowls championship yesterday when he defeated J. A. Howe, on the K.C.C. by 21 shots to 4. Howe discovered Nish In his deadliest form, the K.B.G.C. exponent pulling out his best shots to win head after head. A continuance of such form would make Miah a firm favourite for the title Uis year.

F. Cullen of the Kowloon Docks had a much tougher and most interesting match with J. Chadwick. the K.C.C. representative.

Cullen won by two shots on the 23rd head, but before he obtained the winning point he experienced soveral anxious moments, particularly towards the close, when Chadwick, taking a now lease of life, bowled his best to reduce a deficit.

Chadwick succeeded in levelling the scores at 19, and then Cullen scored with a rather fortunate wick and scraped home.

Both players indulged in high class bowls and if Chadwick can consider himself unlucky to lose after such a redovery, it must also be recognised that Cullen, through his consistency, deserved his suc-

employees. The effect is felt equally the whole of the capital in a business, which thereupon ceases to be a profit-carning—and, consequently, tax-paying—concern. Employees are thrown out of work and a national asset is put out of commission. This point is well illustrated by the case of a principal partner who held £500,000 of the capital in a manufacturing firm. When he died recently the capital of the firm was diminished by £160,000 and its profit-carning and tax-producing capacity reduced by more than 30 per cent. Such a business would be unlikely to recover from the shock in these times when the most affluent concerns find it difficult to make concerns find it difficult to make

When the ownership of an estate is transferred by death more than once during a brief period the effects are even more severe, even although some relief from the duties is given in such circumstances. The following example will emphasise this:—

VALUE HALVED.

The owner of a business with a capital of £120,000 died in 1025, and capital of £120,000 died in 1025, and was succeeded by his son John, who died in 1927. John left the business to his brother, who died last year. On passing by will into the hands of an employee the capital of £120,000 has become only £00,000 owing to death duties, and the business will probably cease to exist through its impoverishment.

A man who held £1,000,000 of the capital of a firm died in 1926 and left his interest to his son, who died five years later. Instead of being a millionaire the grandson of the first proprietor succeeded to only £150,000 as a consequence of heavy death

When the duties payable on death were repealed in Italy, the Italian Minister of Finance said that the Government believed that the immediate loss to the Treasury would be more than compensated not only by the performance of an act of justice but by a real general increase in prosperity. If the present financial situation in this country renders the actual repeal of the death duties impossible, it is high time that the rates of duty were reduced and more liberal reliefs granted where estates change hands through death more than once during a short space of time.

One man was drowned and several hundred people marconed by a cloud-burst near Liverpook. It rained an inch and a half in half an hour. At one railway station the approaches were submerged to a depth of four feet. A middle-aged cyclist, attempting to ride through the flood, when his machine struck an obstacle in the deepest part of the water, was thrown off and drowned. thrown off and drowned.

BONHAM-STRAND PROPERTY

FINAL JUDGMENT FOR DEFENDANT

WIDOW'S CLAIM

Pong Tsoi-ching, of Shatin, defendant in the Bonham Strand West Property case, was awarded final judgment and costs by the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, at the Supreme Court this where the accident happened, was morning.

The action, which was commenced some weeks ago. brought by 'Li Tsc-shi, who, sought to recover 73. Bonham assignment was a forgery by her own adopted son, Li Kni-loy.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon and Mr. Leo! D'Almada e Castro, Junr., instructed by Messrs. Lo and Lo, represented plaintiff, and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., instructed by Mesers. Hastings and Co., appeared for defendant.

ESTOPPEL PLEADED.

Giving final judgment for 'defendant, His Lordship said:-"Following upon my Judgment delivered on June last, the defendant has here moved the Court for final judgment."

"On the hearing of the motion the defendant has called evidence with reference to the search in the Register of Deeds in the Hongkong Land office conducted by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist. They used the record of this search in the preparation both of the mortgage from Li Kai Loi to Yan Pun dated April 24, 1931, and defendant dated August 6, 1931."

"In order to meet this position the file a reply. By her reply she has contended that this estoppel is defeated by certain circumstances."

"In the reply it is pleaded that even knowledge and had consented, as she Police station straightaway. is alleged to have done, nevertheless, the defendant through his agents, Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, had re- dant's explanation for not stopping ceived "before payment of the purchase price to the vender Yan Pun" full notice and information of facts the child away, and secondly, becontained in a letter dated August 6, 1931, written by Messrs. Lo and Lo, the solicitors on behalf of the plaintiff?"

SOLICITORS' DUAL ROLE.

"With reference to this first portion of the reply, I find that the notice contained in this letter did not in fact reach. Messrs. Wilkinson, and Grist "before the payment of purchase price to the vendor Yan Pun." The letter arrived at the office of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist at a point of time when the purchase money was still in their custody; but | the deed having been executed by both parties they were then custodians of the money as agents solely for the vendor. The vendor alone could claim the money from them. They were agents for both parties in the transaction; and after execution of the-assignment-by-both-parties, the solicitors held the deeds for the purchaser and the consideration for the vendor. For this reason the first portion of the reply, in my opinion, Committee announces that:-

"A further answer to the same portion of the reply is, that whatever notice may have reached the purchaser on August 6, 1931, such notice will not operate to disentitle from Daventry if reception proves him as purchaser from the mortgagee good between 10.30 and 11.15 tounless it can be shown also that the night." mortgagee was affected by like notice. The reply does not allege that the mortgagee was affected by any notice contained in this letter.".

THREATENED BY CROWD

TAXI DRIVER DID NOT STOP

AFTER KNOCKING CHILD DOWN

That he did not stop to render assistance to the injured child because of the threatening attitude of the crowd in Third Street, the plea of Chan Tim, a driver of the Sun Taxi Company, who was summoned before Mr. Schofield in the Control Police Court this morning, for negligent driving Strand West, from Pong Tsoi- and failing to stop after an acching, alleging that the property cident. Fines totalling $30 were

> The magistrate said he would not accept the defendant's story about the threatening crowd. Defendant had stated he backed into Western Street and if that were so it would have given the crowd ample time to damage either him or the taxi. Drivers who were threatened usually drove forward as fast as they could.

Traffic-Inspector Alexander said that during the past year, they have not had a report of 'drivers being threatened. They had had no trouble with the coolies.

Mr. C. D'Almada appeared for the defence and plended not guilty. Evidence showed that the defendant had a call for 92 Third Street. While looking for the house he hnocked a girl down. She was extracted from under the of the assignment by Yan Pun to the car by her mother, and her ear was bleeding. The mother took her in-"This evidence coupled with that to a house. The magistrate remarked that it was possible the defendant might not have noticed the child, in looking for the house number. At the ment in honour of King Feisal, their calling since the new scheme same time, he should have paid more attention to the road.

ONE MOVE-THEN ACTION

THE "Q" CARS

The Map Room at Scotland Yard is playing its part in frustrating schemes of London's criminals. Some months ago Lord Trenchard, Commissioner of Police, sur prised the C. I. D. when a map was placed on the wall in the office of one of his assistants who had been given instructions to watch the ebb and flow of crime. The idea was to show at a glance where crime was most prevalent.

From that small beginning the Map Room has grown to such an extent that six detectives are now engaged in keeping the series of maps-one each division-up to
